FORWARD

The 2022 publication of Crime in Connecticut is the 45th in a series of annual reports dating back to 1978. This publication continues to be Connecticut's most comprehensive compilation of crime data and provides detailed information on criminal offenses and arrests statewide.

This publication is derived from crimes brought to the attention of law enforcement agencies and reported to the Crimes Analysis Unit at the Department of Emergency Services and Public Protection. The Crimes Analysis Unit's objective is to produce reliable crime statistics for the purposes of law enforcement administration, operations, and management. Criminal justice professionals, legislators, scholars, and others concerned with crime may use these data for research, planning, and reporting purposes.

We are proud to have 100 percent participation of state, local, and tribal law enforcement agencies across the state in the Connecticut Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) program.

Connecticut law enforcement has consistently provided the necessary resources to make the Connecticut UCR program one of the most effective programs in the United States. The Department of Emergency Services and Public Protection sincerely appreciates the continued participation of law enforcement in the Connecticut UCR Program.

We offer special thanks to all sworn and civilian personnel at the 107 law enforcement agencies in Connecticut who have dedicated their time and effort to make this publication a success by contributing data to the Connecticut Incident-Based Reporting System.

Data used to create this report was current as April 20, 2023. Due to the dynamic nature of crime, the data is subject to change.

Uniform Crime Report Program

Since 1930, participating local, county, state, tribal, and federal law enforcement agencies have voluntarily provided the nation with crime statistics through the Federal Bureau of Investigation's (FBI) Uniform Crime Reporting Program (UCR) via the Summary Reporting System. On January 1, 2021 that system was retired, and the country shifted to National Incident-Based Reporting System (NIBRS). By this date, all 107 of Connecticut's law enforcement agencies were submitting data in incident-based format. The Crimes Analysis Unit maintains and submits Connecticut's crime data to the FBI.

Crime Reporting in Connecticut

In July 1977, Connecticut began its UCR Program. Data collection began with the recruitment and training of 70 agencies. Today, all (107) Connecticut law enforcement agencies participate in the UCR program and report incident-based data to the statewide crime repository, which is managed by the Crimes Analysis Unit. The repository is accessible online at Connecticut's Crime Repository, <https://ct.beyond2020.com>.

National Incident-Based Reporting System (NIBRS)

The FBI's UCR Program began in 1929 with the Summary Reporting System (SRS) which aggregated data about crime, and this method has remained mostly unchanged since that time. Data was compiled on eight Index Offenses which are murder, rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, larceny, motor vehicle theft, and arson. The National Incident-Based Reporting System (NIBRS) was developed from a study on improving crimes statistics and it was launched as pilot program in 1987. The law enforcement community quickly came to a consensus that this new system should be nationally implemented. In February 2016, the FBI announced that the UCR Program would transition from the Summary Reporting System (SRS) to the Incident-Based Reporting System (IBRS) by January 1, 2021.

Connecticut law enforcement agencies began submitting incident-based data in 1994 and over time all the agencies have made the transition to incident-based reporting. The first year that has complete incident-based reporting data is 2021, and 2022 is the first year to use these data in an annual report. In addition to the incident-based data, the crime rate generated using the SRS Index Crimes is included in this report for year-over-year comparison purposes.

Group A and B Offenses

Incident-based reporting divides offenses into two (2) categories: Group A Incidents and Group B Arrests Only. Group A offense data includes time, date, and location of a criminal event; use of a weapon(s) or force; circumstances of certain violent crimes; criminal/gang activity; victim-to-offender relationships; drug types seized; premise type entered/damaged; property stolen, and/or damaged, and/or recovered, and its estimated value; and the demographics of the victims, offenders, and arrestees. Incident-based data collection can link an arrest directly to an incident and the reporting agency can specify if the crime was attempted or completed. Overall, incident-based data collection gathers more detailed information on each criminal event's victim(s), offense(s), and offender(s), and provides context that was not available in the SRS.

All offenses are classified based on law enforcement investigation in accordance with the national incident-based offense definitions and are not necessarily identical to the Connecticut General Statutes Penal Code or local ordinances. The Group A Offenses, while unique to NIBRS, were generally derived from the four-digit NCIC Uniform Offense Classification Codes to facilitate interrelating offense data between the NCIC and the FBI UCR Program. The UCR Program does not collect information on traffic offenses (e.g., parking and moving violations) except for Driving Under the Influence, Hit and Run (of a person), and Vehicular Manslaughter.

The Group A offenses collected in the NIBRS program are as follows: Animal Cruelty, Arson, Assault offenses (Aggravated, Simple, and Intimidation), Bribery, Burglary, Counterfeiting/Forgery, Destruction/Damage/Vandalism of Property, Drug/Narcotic offenses, Embezzlement, Extortion/Blackmail, Fraud offenses, Gambling offenses, Homicide offenses, Human Trafficking offenses, Kidnapping/Abduction, Larceny/Theft offenses, Motor Vehicle Theft, Nonconsensual Sex offenses, Other Sex offenses, Pornography/Obscene Material, Prostitution offenses, Robbery, Stolen Property, and Weapon Law Violations.

Group B offenses are collected when an arrest is made and they are as follows: Curfew/Loitering/Vagrancy Violations; Disorderly Conduct; Driving Under the Influence; Non-Violent Family Offenses; Liquor Law Violations; Trespass of Real Property; and All Other (Non-Traffic) Offenses.

NIBRS divides the Group A offenses into three (3) categories, Crimes Against Persons, Crimes Against Property, and Crimes Against Society. Crimes Against Persons, e.g., Murder, Rape, and Assault, are those offenses whose victims are always individuals. The object of Crimes Against Property, e.g., Robbery, Bribery, and Burglary, is to obtain money, property, or some other benefit. Crimes Against Society, e.g., Animal Cruelty, Drug/Narcotic offenses, and Gambling, represent society's prohibition against engaging in certain types of activity. Offense classifications are not based on filings of the prosecutor, court, medical examiner, jury, or other judicial or subsequent findings, but rather on law enforcement categorization.

Connecticut UCR Program Objectives

The five fundamental objectives of the Connecticut UCR Program are:

- Inform the Governor, Legislature, other governmental officials, and the public as to the nature, magnitude, and trends of crime in Connecticut.
- Provide law enforcement administrators with statistics for administrative and operational use.
- Provide arrestee and/or offender demographics in order to find the proper focus for crime prevention and law enforcement.
- Provide data and statistics for research to improve the efficiency, effectiveness, and performance of criminal justice agencies.
- Provide the FBI with complete Connecticut crime data to include in the national publication Crime in the United States.

Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) Limitations

The UCR Program measures the extent, fluctuation, and distribution of crime in the United States. There are inherent limitations in current crime-reporting practices. How much crime the public reports is of primary importance in determining the completeness of the data. The degree to which the public reports crimes varies from area to area and it is known that a certain amount of crime is not reported to law enforcement agencies due to a variety of factors. These factors include victims may consider the offenses against them to be of very little consequence; they may think that the likelihood of apprehending the suspect is small; they may fear retaliation from offenders; or they may be a participant in the crime. Even with these limitations, the UCR Program provides the best network of actual state and national crime figures currently available. The National Crime Victimization Survey, <https://bjs.ojp.gov/data-collection/ncvs>, which is administered annually by the Bureau of Justice Statistics, provides a complimentary picture to both Crime in Connecticut and Crime in the United States.

Domestic Violence

Domestic violence crime statistics are collected as mandated by Connecticut General Statute § 46b-38d. Offenses collected in the State UCR Program can include a domestic violence indicator that is derived from the relationship between the victim(s) and the offender. The domestic violence data element is collected for Crimes Against Persons and for Crimes Against Property. The domestic violence indicator is not forwarded to the FBI as they do not aggregate these data nationally. The Crime Analysis Unit publishes three reports annually regarding domestic violence: the Family Violence Homicide report; Family Violence Arrest report; and the Family Violence Detailed report. All of these reports available on our website <https://portal.ct.gov/DESPP/Division-of-State-Police/Crimes-Analysis-Unit/Crimes-Analysis-Unit/>.

Bias Motivated Crime

Connecticut General Statute §29-1-c requires that information related to bias motivated crimes, also known as “hate crimes”, of bigotry or bias directed against victims perceived to be of a particular race; color; religion; ancestry; national origin; gender; sexual orientation; gender expression or identity; and/or mental or physical disability be compiled. Like domestic violence offenses, bias motivated crimes are not distinct or separate offenses, but are traditional offenses motivated in whole, or in part, by the offender's bias. Data collected with the bias motivated crime indicator are forwarded to the FBI for aggregation and publication on the Crime Data Explorer at <https://cde.ucr.cjis.gov/>. The Crimes Analysis Unit publishes an annual supplement to this report regarding bias motivated crime, the Connecticut Bias Motivated Crimes Annual Report which is available on our website <https://portal.ct.gov/DESPP/Division-of-State-Police/Crimes-Analysis-Unit/Crimes-Analysis-Unit/>.

Law Enforcement Officers Killed or Assaulted (LEOKA)

The report includes the results of data collected throughout the year regarding officers who were killed either feloniously or accidentally, and officers who were assaulted while performing their duties. These data are forwarded to the FBI for their annual LEOKA infographics which is available on the Crime Data Explorer at <https://cde.ucr.cjis.gov/LATEST/webapp/#/pages/le/leoka>.

Police Employee Counts and Missing Persons

This report includes the results of an annual survey of Connecticut’s law enforcement agencies for the number of sworn and civilian employees they employ, and the number of persons reported missing in Connecticut annually.

Reporting, Collection, and Verification

The primary focus of the collection of criminal statistics in Connecticut is the uniformity and accuracy of the data. Incident reports uploaded from external records management systems must meet the state's minimum requirements for submission before being accepted into the state repository. Criminal events submitted on incident reports that are not validated or properly corrected are not included in this report.

Throughout the year, the Crimes Analysis Unit works with law enforcement agencies to provide training opportunities and technical assistance to increase reporting accuracy. Ongoing communication by phone, email, and on-site, with reporting agencies is essential to ensure the accuracy and quality of reporting. Incoming reports are examined for adherence to program rules. Necessary adjustments or unusual variations are brought to the attention of the submitting agency. The Connecticut UCR Program is audited by the FBI every three years.

Offenses and Clearances

Every month, law enforcement agencies throughout the state submit incident-based crime data. They indicate the number of offenses brought to their attention through such sources as victims, police, or witness reports. Contributors provide the number of actual offenses (minus unfounded complaints) and the number of incidents cleared. Incident-based reporting has eliminated the SRS Hierarchy Rule which only allowed the most serious crime in a criminal incident to be recorded for statistical purposes, and now allows up to 10 offenses committed in a single incident to be recorded. Clearances occur on the incident-level rather than the offense-level, meaning an arrest for one offense in an incident clears the entire incident.

For a criminal offense to be “cleared” in incident-based reporting, one of the two following situations must occur: (1) at least one person is arrested, charged, and turned over to the court for prosecution; or (2) the incident is cleared by “exceptional means”, which can occur in one of the following ways: some element beyond police control precludes the physical arrest of the offender such as their death; the prosecution has declined to pursue the case for reasons other than the lack of probable cause; the offender is in custody of another jurisdiction; the victim refused to cooperate in the prosecution; or the incident involved a juvenile without taking him/her into custody.

Counting Methodology

Incident-based reporting is a more complex data collection that results in a variety of ways to count the data submitted. For that reason, the Crimes Analysis Unit has outlined the methodology below for how data in the report was counted.

- Group A Offenses are counted as follows:
 - Crimes Against Persons are counted as one offense per distinct victim.

- Crimes Against Property are counted as one offense per distinct operation, except for Motor Vehicle Thefts. Motor Vehicles theft offenses are counted by the number of Motor Vehicles stolen.
- Crimes Against Society are counted as one offense per distinct crime against society.
- Group B Offenses are counted by the number of distinct offenders of a Group B offense who had an arrest date in the calendar year of 2022.
- Offense specific information such as weapon type, premise type, and criminal/gang activity are counted by each distinct offense regardless of crime category. Property loss, value, and type are counted by the distinct property item at the incident level.
- When comparing an offense count to the prior year, only absolute values were given when the count was less than 100; relative change was also calculated when the offense count was 100 or more.
- Due to rounding, percentages may not precisely reflect the absolute figures.

Crime Rate

Historically, Crime in Connecticut has compared its crime rate across the eight UCR Index offenses with that of the nation for the same offenses. The crimes rate is simply the number of crimes that are committed during a period of time, in a particular place, that are adjusted for variances in the population. Because it is possible to convert NIBRS to SRS, the annual Crime in Connecticut reports will continue this practice for as long as the FBI continues to provide those figures.

How to Use this Report

Crime in Connecticut is a publication based on crime data submitted from Connecticut law enforcement agencies using the Connecticut Incident-Based Reporting System. There are important factors the reader must consider when reading or using this report, as well as any crime statistic report available from the FBI or other sources:

- The data used to compile this report are based on a “snapshot” of our repository database as of April 20th, 2023. In incident-based reporting, there are no “fixed” statistics because law enforcement agencies are able to update their crime incidents as new information becomes available as offenders are arrested. Agencies can report crimes that occurred in prior years that may not have been previously reported. Therefore, the statistics are preliminary. Incidents that have not passed FBI edits for completeness and accuracy are not included.
- The data used in the latter portion of this report are derived from the incident-based reporting system. It is more comprehensive and detailed than the retired SRS, so the statistics published from the Connecticut Incident-Based Reporting System (CTIBRS) and the SRS should not be compared.
- The data displayed in this publication should not be compared to the FBI Crime Data Explorer (CDE). The Connecticut UCR Program forwards its crime data to the FBI in the NIBRS format;

however, the FBI may convert NIBRS to the SRS format, use estimations, or omit agencies that have not submitted all twelve months for 2022. Like this report, the FBI data on the CDE is a snapshot in time. Refer to the Connecticut Crime Online at <https://ct.beyond2020.com/> for the most current data.

- The UCR program does not measure or consider all factors that have an impact on crime. Superficial conclusions are sometimes drawn from crime and arrest data, particularly when attempts are made to compare jurisdictions. These conclusions may lead to simplistic and/or incomplete analyses that can create misleading perceptions which may adversely affect communities and their residents.¹ For this reason, the FBI does not recommend that law enforcement agencies be “ranked” based on crime data alone. Local ordinances and criminal justice administrative policies, record-keeping practices, and the degree of adherence to UCR standards all affect the number of crimes and arrests reported. Additionally, socioeconomic conditions and the characteristics and attitudes of the local population influence the extent and nature of criminal behavior in a community. Valid assessments are possible only with careful study and analysis of the range of unique conditions affecting each local law enforcement jurisdiction.²

- There are a variety of variables³ which contribute to crime in a particular jurisdiction, including its demographic, economic and cultural make-up of its population; the local industrial and economic base; its dependence upon neighboring jurisdictions; the transportation system; its economic dependence on nonresidents (such as tourists, shoppers, or other day-time visitors); and its proximity to military installations, correctional facilities, universities/colleges, or state hospitals.¹

Summary Reporting System

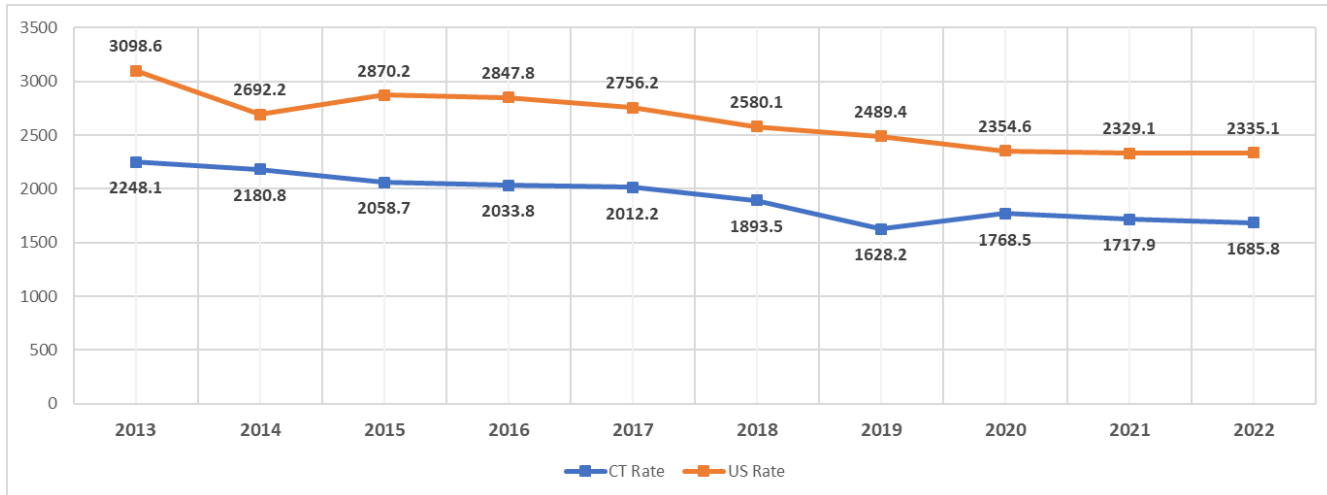

Index Crime Rates

This section of the publication details the frequency and rate of the eight Index Crimes in Connecticut. Those crimes are murder, rape, robbery, and aggravated assault which together comprise the Violent Index crimes while burglary, larceny/theft, motor vehicle theft, and arson comprise the Property Index crimes.

The data was derived from the incident-based reporting system and converted to the Summary Reporting System by counting only the most egregious offense in a criminal incident.

Connecticut Incident-Based Reporting System

This is the first annual Crime in Connecticut report to use the Connecticut Incident-Based Reporting System to examine Connecticut's crime data. The elimination of the Hierarchy Rule will result in an increase in reported offenses across all categories over previous years (see page V). These numbers are derived from monthly submissions by Connecticut law enforcement agencies and are forwarded on to the FBI for use in the annual Crime in the United States.

Statewide Arrest Data

Data in this section of the report represent the number of persons arrested, not the number of arrest offenses or charges filed. The following tables depict counts for offenses in which an individual has been taken into custody, cited, or summoned to appear in court. In some instances, an arrest may be counted when a juvenile is taken into custody but released without being charged. These numbers are derived from Incident-Based Reporting submissions by Connecticut State law enforcement agencies.

Arrest Data Statewide Profile 2022

The term “arrest” is defined as a physical arrest, citation, or served summons. This data represents the number of persons arrested, not on charges filed; therefore, each reporting jurisdiction submits one set of arrest data for each person per single apprehension. One set of arrest data will clear single or multiple offenses in the same incident and/or multiple incidents. Arrests on warrants issued by another jurisdiction are reported by the originating agency, not the arresting agency. All persons arrested for the commission of a Group “A” or Group “B” crime are included in this count. A Group “B” crime, which is only reported on the arrest level, encompasses offenses which are not under the Group “A” category. Excluded from this count are any traffic-related arrests, except for DUI, Hit and Run (of a person), and Vehicular Manslaughter.

98.7% of arrestees are apprehended without a weapon

Of those who were apprehended with a weapon, 68.4% of the time it was firearm

67.4% of arrestees were between the ages of 20 to 44

46.3% of arrested juveniles are 16 to 17 years old

Types of Arrest	Distribution
Summoned/Cited to Court	15.2%
Taken into Custody (based on a warrant)	27.4%
On-View (without a warrant)	57.4%

56.1% of all arrests were for Group B Offenses

55.5% of all Crimes Against Persons arrests were for Simple Assault

58.4% of all Crimes Against Property arrests were for Larceny Offenses

Juvenile Arrests

4,429

The word arrest as it applies to juveniles is intended to mean the law enforcement handling of those juveniles who have committed a crime and are taken into custody under such circumstances that, if the juvenile were an adult, an arrest would have been reported. They report any situation where they handle/process a young person for a violation of the law, in lieu of an actual arrest (e.g., summons, citation, or notification to appear before a juvenile or youth court or similar authority).

Crime Counts and Rates by Town

The following section lists town law enforcement agencies who report to the Connecticut Uniform Crime Reporting Program. Connecticut aggregates crime by towns. Some towns have their own police department while the Connecticut State Police (CSP) handle crimes on the interstates and highways in and around town jurisdictions. Some towns have resident troopers that report their data to CSP, and some towns are solely monitored by CSP. CSP aggregates the data of these 77 agencies and reports them under one Originating Agency Identifier (ORI). Data on crimes reported by universities, tribal police departments, or other agencies can be found on page 66.

Towns with Police Departments	(94)
Towns with Resident Troopers Reporting under CSP	(53)
Towns without Resident Trooper Reporting under CSP	(24)

Towns with Police Departments

Crimes that occurred in the town proper were separated from crimes that were reported by CSP for that town; those figures can be found on page 80. In addition, crimes that occurred on university campuses or tribal lands were not included in the count of crimes by town but can be found on page 67.

Acting in Concert - Requires all the offenders to actually commit or assist in the commission of all of the crimes in an incident. The offenders must be aware of, and consent to, the commission of all the offenses; or even if nonconsenting, their actions assist in the commission of all the offenses.

All Other Offenses - Group B arrest-only offense for an arrest that is not Group A offenses and not included in one of the specifically named Group B crime categories listed previously.

Arrestee - The person arrested for committing an offense. In incident-based reporting, one arrest clears the entire incident regardless of the number of offenses or offenders, known or unknown.

Arson - To unlawfully and intentionally damage or attempt to damage any real or personal property of another person or entity by fire or incendiary device.

Animal Cruelty - Intentionally, knowingly, or recklessly taking an action that mistreats or kills any animal without just cause.

Assault Offenses - An unlawful attack by one person upon another:

Aggravated Assault - An unlawful attack by one person upon another wherein the offender uses a dangerous weapon or displays it in a threatening manner, or the victim suffers obvious severe or aggravated bodily injury, or where there was a risk for serious injury/intent to seriously injure. Attempted Murders are reported as Aggravated Assaults.

Simple Assault - An unlawful physical attack by one person upon another where neither the offender displays a dangerous weapon, nor the victim suffers obvious severe or aggravated bodily injury.

Intimidation - To unlawfully place another person in reasonable fear of harm through the use of threatening words and/or other conduct without displaying a dangerous weapon or subjecting the victim to an actual physical attack.
